

#134 Write about a Treasure hunt.

 thelifeofmine3.wordpress.com/2024/03/04/4-write-about-a-treasure-hunt/

March 4, 2024

Person 1: So, today's topic is about Treasure hunt. What do you think about it?

Person 2: Do you really want to hear about my treasure hunt?

Person 1: Of course, you should. Share your experience.

Person 2: (laughs) Well, in my experience, I had a treasure hunt, stealing money from my grandmother (Aatha).

Person 1: What? You stole money? Seriously?

Person 2: Yeah, I have. It's too obvious. We used to do that, right!

Person 1: Might be, but I didn't expect this from you. How could you?

Person 2: To be honest, yes. In my childhood, with my friend, we used to take 50 paise, one rupee, and two rupees from her money purse. It was the highest, not even five rupees. Mostly, it was these three currencies.

Person 1: That's bad. How can you call it a treasure hunt then?

Person 2: Hmm, we planned before. We waited for her to go to the terrace to dry clothes, or bath, or we play in the bedroom. We waited for her to vanish, and then we both would take the money and buy 90's kids' chocolates.

Person 1: That's very interesting. You were a naughty child.

Person 2: Maybe, and I've never exposed this secret to anybody till now. "Should be a secret, okay?" (winks)